KEENAN, TAMMANY TREASURER

TIM SULLIVAN LIKELY TO BE A SACHEM IN CARROLUS PLACE.

Devery Will Ask at the Impending Meeting to Be Recognized as Member of the Executive Committee, and Won't Be -Then May Fight or Compromise. Patrick Keenan, who was City Chamberlain under the Van Wyck administration and is the Temmany leader of the Sixteenth Assembly district, has been chosen br Leader Murphy to sucreed the late John eQuade as treasurer of Tammany Hall. Mr. Keenan will be elected to that office at the first meeting of the general o m-mittee. The meeting will be held soon after the adjournment of the Legislature, which sto take place next Thursday. The disso htion of the mandamus secured by Devery leaves the committee free to organize. Mr. Keenan is a wealthy man, made so ly contracts secured during his long connection with Temmany.

He was a close friend of Richard Croker. In his district lives William F. Grote, who leads the Greater New York Democracy there. Mr. Grote once said: "When went into the game in the Sixteenth, Pat Keenan said, 'Fatty, I'll put you on the bum.' And I must say he kept his word." When the first meeting is held Devery will appear and demand recognition. He will, through his members of the general will, through his memoers of the general committee, ask that the organization recognize him as member of the executive committee. As the Appellate Division has decided that the general committee may compose its executive committee as it likes his application will be rejected.

He may then go to court, but it was said last night that as that method meant a long delay. Devery might consent to a compromise by which Dr. William J. Stewart would be recognized as the executive mem-is thought that Tammany will make no further fight if Devery will have Dr. Stewart named. Devery, controlling Stewart, will be the real leader, but Tammany will be relieved of the odium of Devery himself. That arrangement would continue only until the primaries next fall, when Goodwin will again contest with Devery the control of the Ninth.

The Tammany Society will meet Monday night to elect a new board of sachems. Ten of the eleven will be reëlected. John F. Carroll resigned some time ago, making a vacancy which will be filled, it is predicted by the election of Timothy D. Sullivan, the new Congressman of the Battery and Wall Street. Big Tim was received into the Tammany Society at its last meeting. By his election to the board of sachems he will advance his own power by the appointment of Patrick Keenan as treasurer of the Wigwam.

Devery was duly elected to the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall. Devery announced that when the General Committee holds its next meeting he'll be there with brase bands galore, plenty of red fire and cheering followers, and demand to be recognized as Executive Committeeman.

ADDICKS VOTERS LAW STANDS. MORE LEGISLATORS INVOLVED Gov. Hunn Declines to Sign the Repealing

Doven, Del., April 18.-Delaware will still have the Addicks Voters' Assistants law. Gov. Hunn allowed midnight to come without attaching his signature to the repealer, which, by a coalition of the Demo-crats and Regular Republicans, passed the Legislature toward the close of the recent session, and which would have abolished the system of voters' assistants at general elections in this State. The Regulars and Democrats charged that the Addicks men used the Voters Assistants law as a means of ascertaining whether purchased voters "delivered the goods" in the election booth. The Addicks men in this way, they charged, spent a large campaign fund in the interests of the candidacy of J. Edward Addicks for the United States Senate. The Addicks men, in their hearing before

Gov. Huan and in their public prints and utterances, declared that bribery in Delaware could not be stamped out or pro-moted by the voters' assisfants; that hundreds of voters could not begin to vote intelligently without assistance with their blanket ballots; that every man had a constitutional right to vote and have it counted; that without the voters' assistants appointed by an Addicks Governor that party, although the dominant party in Kent and Sussex counties, could not have representation inside the election rooms and in the custody of the ballot on election days, save where they were fortunate enough to elect an inspector.

The last contention had weight with the Governor, for only a few days ago he said to a friend:

"With the voters' assistants' the union Republicans are enabled to have a representative inside that election room, but without them, they can have no voice or oversight, although they compose nearly all the Republicans of Kent county and nine-tenths of the Republicans of Sussex Were it not for this feature, no power on earth could prevent me from signing that repealer."

The two bills which got the pocket veto are: "An act to repeal an act entitled an set to create voters' seistents and reguting the duties thereof"; "An act increasing the powers and duties of the audito of accounts.

Concerning the veto of the Voters' Assistents reperler the Governor said "I have only to sey that I have done that which, according to the best light I could get, works the less tharm and the most good to future interests of the State."

THREE MISSOURI STATE SENA-TORS INDICTED FOR BRIBERY.

Boodle Scandal Grows Under Grand Jury's Probing-Lieut.-Gov Lee's Brother Says the Latter Will Return to Testify on Tuesday-Many Witnesses Heard.

St. Louis, April 18 .- Sufficient testimony was adduced before the April Grand Jury to-day to justify the indictment for bribery by the Cole County Grand Jury of three State Senators whose names have not heretofore figured in the Legislative boodle scandal, according to well-informed sources. It is said that Eugene Hansmann of St. Louis county gave testimony as to the sudden accession of wealth by legislators from the county.

Senator Buell L. Matthews and Representative A. E. L. Gardner of St. Louis county cannot be found. Whether they are implicated in the scandal is a matter of conjecture, but their disappearance from their homes is causing comment.

Another fact was made public to-day that will cause many a boodler to suffer from an attack of insomnia, and that is that James Whitecotton, Speaker of the last house, and the man who first asserted that legislative corruption existed, had an all-day conference with Circuit Attorney Folk last Sunday and is to appear before the local Grand Jury on Monday and retell his story, Capt. "Bob" Lee, brother of the fugitive Lieutenant-Governor, had an intervie with Mr. Folk to-day and assured him that he would have John A. Lee in the city on Tuesday morning ready and willing to go before the Grand Jury. Not much importance is attached to this promise however, as it is asserted that the Lieutenant-Governor's testimony before the April Grand Jury was contradictory.

Among the witnesses before the local Grand Jury to-day were the Rev. Crayton Brooks of Jefferson City, whose charges of legislative corruption precipitated the present investigation: Representative Jo-seph R. Lee, Senator John Sartorlous, J. T. Craighead, manufacturer of baking powder; Representative Siebert, a saloon keeper; Stanley Stoner, a lawyer; and representatives of the Pennsylvania Salt Company, which is said to have sold alum to companies outside the trust; Anthony Faust, Ir., who testified as to money raised for the defeat of the Audubon bill.

Circuit Attorney Folk and Attorney-General Crow have arranged for a conference to-morrow at which a plan of campaign will be mapped out which it is believed will prove disastrous to many not even suspected at present.

CHICAGO, April 18 .- According to a St. Louis despatch published here to-day, Lieut.-Gov. Lee of Missouri. who is wanted Lieut.-Gov. Lee of Missouri, who is wanted in that city to testify before the Grand Jury in the Baking Powder legislation investigation, is in Chicago. Inquiries at the Auditorium and the Annex, at one of which hotels it was rumored that Lieut.-Gov. Lee would stop, failed to find any trace of him. Search at the other downtown hotels likewise failed to reveal any trace of him.

Several other cottages which it seemed would not escape damage were saved by the firemen playing water on the roofs.

Two of the buildings which were burned had only recently been furnished. The Delevan Hotel was to open for the season on Memorial Day.
